A new customized solution in smarter printing

Miroglio Textile group is a staple in the textile printing business and has been for more than 60 years. The company's rich cultural heritage has continually evolved through responsible innovative technological advances.

What is it ?

The E.volution™ by Miroglio Textile platform is based on the key concept that sees different ingredients all combined to yield a new kind of print. These ingredients are: creativity, innovation and responsibility.

Miroglio Textile, since its launch last february, has nimbly developed E.volution™ to become a unique business and design service platform that combines unparalleled creative design with a comprehensive menu of technically advanced printing process options, each one supported by LCA (Life Cycle Assesment) studies*.

Evolution™ by Miroglio Textile can be applied on a wider portfolio of fashion fabric types such as polyesters, cottons, viscose, stretch, Tencel® and many other refined blends in order to be able to respond to contemporary textile market needs.

* At of today, LCA studies have been conducted by ICEA on polyester based fabrics

The technology

Today, Evolution™ by Miroglio Textile, is a unique platform able to offer incredible choice through a diverse range of technologies in printing, dyeing and the handling of its products.

Evolution™ by Miroglio Textile can offer the ultimate in terms of ingredients, thanks to its commitment to research and to business partnerships. One such partnership is Sensient, a multinational ink producer with its Elvajet® Alpha ink range, which represents a unique method of digital printing directly onto polyester fabric, based on breakthrough, innovative water-based inks.

Miroglio Textile's incredibly long heritage and experience guarantee maximum performance in terms of colour, beauty, definition and speed by using innovative smart technology that is kind to the environment yet still offers clients customized solutions to their needs.

Whether the need is for top-end exclusive design or for the everyday core basics, Miroglio Textile deploys the most appropriate production route for optimal results in terms of aesthetic, quality, sustainable performances. This is possible thanks to the fact that Miroglio Textile is the only company in Europe that owns and manages all the best and most relevant printing technologies available today.

Creativity

Each customer is and always has been 'right', and for that relationship to blossom, Miroglio looks for new and dynamic ways to stimulate their creative relationship. Through the new Evolution™ platform, the company's style team, supported by collaborations with leading artists, sculptors and renowned designers, offers a full design service. It is a unique cross-fertilization recipe between textiles, art and technology, underpinned with a natural commitment to continual research and eco-sustainable metrics customizable to each client's unique desire.

The LCA studies

Miroglio Textile deploys the most appropriate printing production route to get the best result, and currently each Evolution™ by Miroglio textile technology has a provable, rigorous and demonstrable life cycle analysis* on polyester fabrics.

* LCA studies have been conducted by ICEA
